

COL. ROOSEVELT DIES AT OYSTER BAY

WHOLE NATION SHOCKED BY SUDDEN PASSING OF DISTINGUISHED AMERICAN

FUNERAL WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, who died at his home on Sagamore Hill early today will be laid to rest without pomp or ceremony in Young's Memorial Cemetery in this village Wednesday afternoon. He will be buried on a knoll overlooking Long Island Sound, a plot which he and Mrs. Roosevelt selected soon after he left the White House. In the words of the clergyman who will conduct the funeral service, "America's most typical American," known in every corner of the earth, will go to his grave as a "quiet, democratic, Christian country-gentleman, beloved by his neighbors."

After prayers at the Roosevelt home at which only members of the family will be present the funeral services will be held at 12:45 o'clock in Christ Episcopal church, the little old frame structure where for years the colonel and his family attended divine worship.

At the request of Mrs. Roosevelt, no flowers will be sent. The altar will be decorated only with laurel placed on it for the Christmas season. Also in conformance with Mrs. Roosevelt's wishes, there will be no music and no eulogy, but only the simple service of the Episcopal church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. George E. Talmage.

The church, founded in 1705 and rebuilt in 1878, will accommodate less than 500 persons, so that admittance will be by card only. These cards it was announced will be issued from the colonel's office in New York and will be given only to relatives and intimate friends.

Messages of condolence, not only from fellow countrymen of high and low degree but from distinguished citizens of many nations were pouring into Oyster Bay tonight by the hundred. All express heartfelt grief at the passing of a man whose life was devoted to his country and whose death was a national loss. The colonel's death was a shock to the nation, and his passing was a national loss. The colonel's death was a shock to the nation, and his passing was a national loss.

The death of Colonel Roosevelt is believed by the physicians who attended him to have been hastened by grief over the death of his youngest son, Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, who lost his life in a battle with a German airman last July. He was proud of his soldier sons and their heroism but he was a devoted father and he grieved for the one who gave his life for his country as well as for the other who was wounded. He hid his suffering from the world, however, in the hope that he might set an example for other fathers and mothers who had given their sons to the nation. To the last Colonel Roosevelt had been preaching "Americanism" and few realized that his health had been shattered. It was believed that the rugged constitution would not fail him and that he would regain his health. His messages of peace, however, had been delivered thru the medium of editorials or public statements instead of as addresses.

Sudden Death a Shock.
Even to his neighbors in Oyster Bay it seemed impossible that life had ended so suddenly for the rough rider hero of Spanish war days; the statesman, who as governor of New York and as president had wielded the "big stick" so fearlessly; the big game hunter of tropical jungles; the citizen who preached preparedness long before his country entered the world conflict.

Apparently neither Colonel Roosevelt nor his wife had any forebodings that death would soon still his active mind and body. It was only yesterday that Mrs. Roosevelt sent a letter to Charles Stewart Davison, chairman of the general citizens' committee appointed to welcome returning soldiers in New York announcing that the colonel would accept the honorary chairmanship of the committee.

"The rheumatism has invaded Colonel Roosevelt's right hand," wrote Mrs. Roosevelt, "so he wants me to write that he has telegraphed his acceptance. This note is to assure you that he will be at your service by spring time." It was at 4:15 o'clock this morning that the former president died in his sleep, peacefully. His death was due directly to a blood clot lodged in one lung as a result of inflammatory rheumatism.

Flags at Half Mast.
All flags in Oyster Bay are at half mast tonight and in windows of nearly every store and residence are pictures of the former president, draped with crepe, and surrounded with American flags. A special meeting of the town board to draft resolutions of sorrow was called for tonight and at the meeting the board also met for the same purpose. Tonight cable messages and telegrams of sympathy addressed to Mrs. Roosevelt poured in in such numbers that the local operator was unable to handle them and three more telegraphers were called from New York to assist him.

Among the messages made public was one from Mrs. Frances F. Cleveland, President's widow, in which she asked Mrs. Roosevelt to "accept assurance of profoundest sympathy in this—yours and the country's—great loss."

Personal messages also were received from William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce; former United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Major General George W. Goethals, former Governor Colquhoun of Texas, and Elbert H. Gary.

President Seven Years.
Colonel Roosevelt's career has left such a vivid impression upon the people of his time that it is necessary to touch but briefly upon some of the more striking phases of his varied, interesting and "strenuous" life to recall to the public mind full details of his many exploits and experiences.

Called to the white house in 1901 after President McKinley had been assassinated, Colonel Roosevelt, 42 years of age, became the youngest president the United States has ever had. Three years later was elected as president by the largest popular vote a president has received.

Thus Roosevelt, sometimes called a man of destiny, served seven years as the nation's chief magistrate. In a subsequent decade the fortunes of politics did not favor him, for, again a candidate for president—this time leading the progressive party which he himself had organized when he differed radically with some of the policies of the republican party in 1912—he went down to defeat, together with the republican candidate, William Howard Taft. Woodrow Wilson, democrat, was elected.

Colonel Roosevelt's enemies agreed with his friends that his life, his character and his writings represented a high type of Americanism.

A Frail Youth.
Of Dutch ancestry, born in New York city on October 27, 1858, in a house in E. 29th Street the baby Theodore was one of four children who came to Theodore and Marsha Bulloch Roosevelt. The mother was of southern stock and the father of northern, a situation which during the early years of Theodore junior's boyhood was not allowed to interfere with the family life of these children during the civil war days.

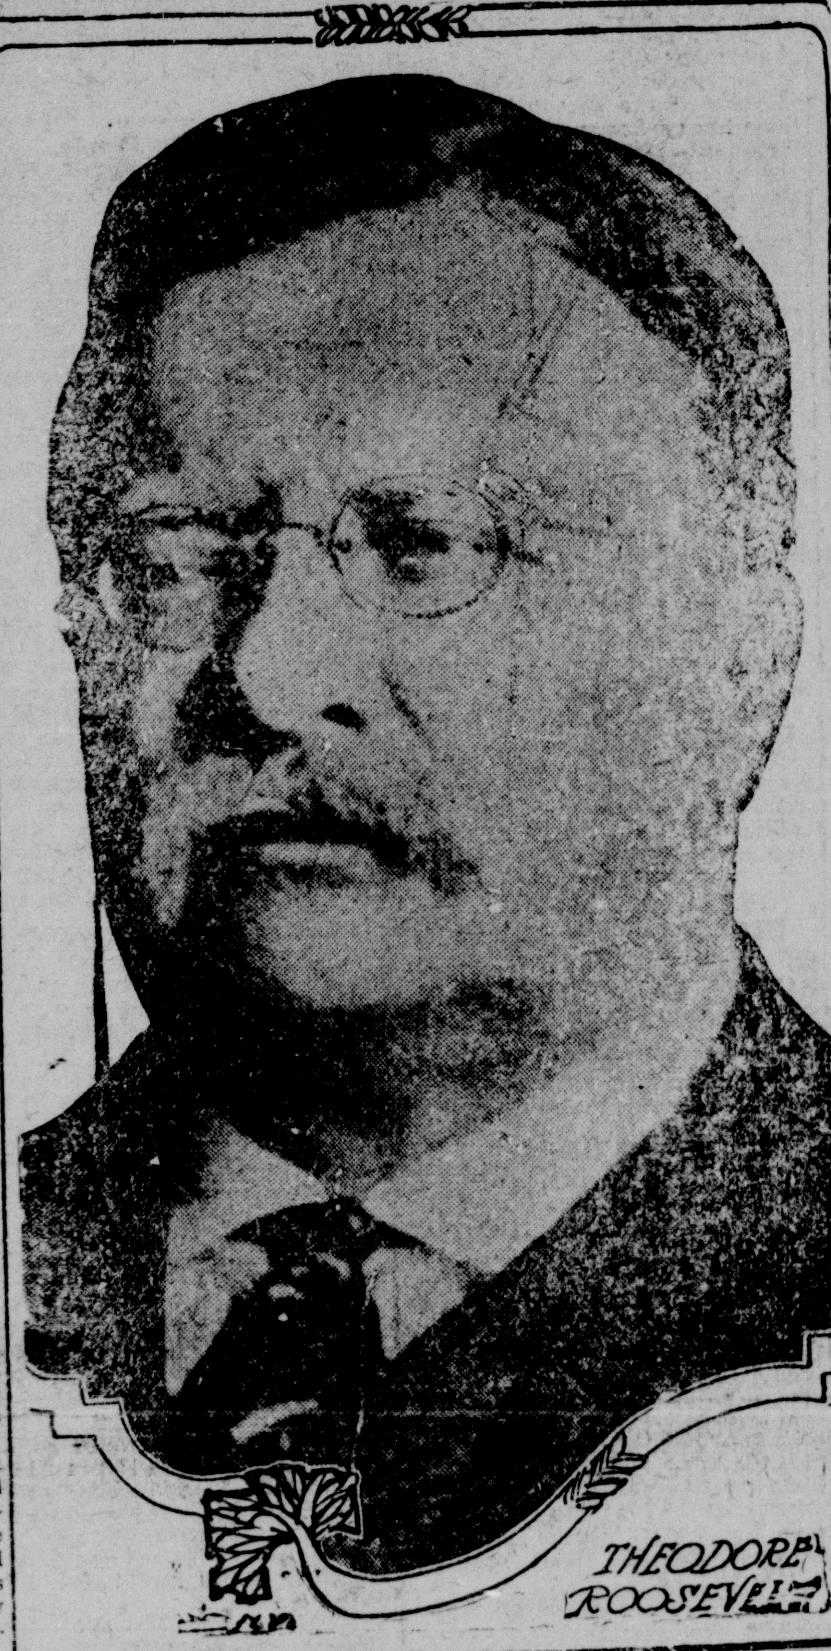

In 1880 Roosevelt married Miss Alice Lee of Boston. She died in 1884, leaving one child, Alice, now the wife of Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio. In 1886 Roosevelt married Miss Edith Kermit Carow of New York, and to them five children were born—Edith, now the wife of Richard Derby, and four sons, Theodore Jr., Kermit, Archibald and Quentin, who lost his life in the aviation service in France.

Turin to Politics.
The public career of the man who was to become president began not long after he left college. His profession was law but the activities that were to come left him no time to practice it. In 1882, 1883 and 1884 he was elected to the New York state assembly, where his efforts on behalf of good government and civil service reform attracted attention. When the republican national convention of 1884 was held in Chicago, he was chairman of the New York delegation.

After this experience he dropped out of politics for two years. Going west, he purchased ranches along the Little Missouri river, in North Dakota, and divided his time between outdoor sports, particularly hunting and literary work. There he laid the foundation for his series of books, "The Winning of the West," which was published from 1889 to 1896, and

DIED MONDAY MORNING

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

TRIBUTES PAID EX-PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Members of the cabinet, diplomats, senators and representatives and others prominent in public life issued statements today reflecting the profound feeling stirred in the capital by the news of Colonel Roosevelt's death. All expressed their sorrow and paid tribute to the former president as a great figure in life.

Vice-president Marshall said: "I am not one of those who have no feeling of regret over the death of a man who occupied so large and prominent a place in the political and public affairs of American life as did the late President Roosevelt, simply by reason of the fact that I did not agree with him in his political views nor approve of his theories of statesmanship."

"The greatest safety to the republic arises from the sharp clashes of men whose ideas are as far apart as the poles. This clashing of ideas enables the common people at large to pursue a middle course. The late president undoubtedly will leave a permanent impression upon American life. He was a born fighter. I did not know him personally but I have ascertained since coming to Washington that he had more personal friends than any public man who was ever in this city."

Secretary Daniels: "The death of Ex-President Roosevelt removes one of the ablest of the dynamic forces this country has produced. He has blazed new paths and refused to be fettered by conventions that other distinguished men were the monitor of millions."

"Original, forceful, courageous, he was the monitor of millions of fellow citizens who will miss his inspiring leadership. * * * His last days were saddened by the death of his brave son who gave his life for his country. But his devotion to the cause for which the young man died gave him ability to rejoice in his courage and in the supreme sacrifice."

Secretary Baker: "During his long and brilliant career he touched the public life of America in more ways than any other of our public men. His relations to the navy and to the army are of course a part of the history of those two services. * * * Taken all in all it is the close of a great career, typically American and marked at every point by loyalty to American ideals as well as by resistless energy and determination."

Senator Johnson of California: "The greatest American of our generation has passed away. He had a truer vision, the higher courage, the wiser statesmanship than any man of our time. I cannot speak of the wiser statesmanship or profound knowledge on varied subjects; he stood alone in quickness of perception, in courage for the right as he saw it. I am mourning today not only the greatest American, a world figure such as time seldom presents, but a thoughtful, kindly, appreciative friend."

Speaker Clark: "He was one of the most extraordinary characters this country has ever possessed. He was the personification of energy. He exercised his talents and industry in many fields of human endeavor and in every one of them was distinguished to a remarkable degree. He had a wonderful hold on the popular imagination and will hold a high place in American history."

Representative Cannon of Illinois will be as one of the great presidents of the republic. He kept in closer touch with the executive department than any other president I have known. While I occupied the speaker's chair and he the president's chair, hardly a week passed without conference on his invitation and contrary to the popular impression, he sought advice as often as he offered suggestions.

WORKING PEOPLE OF WORLD WANT A LASTING PEACE

Says President In Speech At Milan, Italy

MILAN, Sunday, Jan. 5.—(By The Associated Press.)—President Wilson voiced again today his views that the working people of the world demanded from the coming peace conference not merely treaties of peace, but guarantees of the justice and the future of the peace to be made. He declared his belief that the social structure of the world rested upon the great working classes and reiterated his conviction that the peace must be made with the sentiment of those classes constantly kept in view.

The president made these declarations in his speech at the reception given him by the municipality, his principal speech of the day. The reception accorded the American executive was most enthusiastic one, both here and at Genoa where he made a brief stop on his way from Rome to this city.

Wilson's Speech.
In replying to welcome of the mayor of Milan on behalf of the municipality today, President Wilson said: "May I not say to you as the representative of this great city that it is impossible for me to put into words the impressions I have received today. The spontaneous welcome, the spontaneous coming from the heart has been profoundly moving to me and I have not failed to see the significance of that welcome. You have yourself referred to it. I am as keenly aware I believe sir, as any body can be that the social structure rests upon the great working classes of the world and that those working classes in several countries of the world have by their consciousness of community of interest and of spirit done perhaps more than any other influence has to establish a world opinion which is not of a nation, which is not of a continent, but is the opinion of mankind; and I am aware, sir, that those of us now charged with the great and serious responsibility of concluding peace must think, act and confer in the presence of this opinion—that we are not masters of the fortunes of any nation, but are the servants of mankind; that it is not our privilege to follow special interests, but it is our manifest duty to study only the general interest."

Pleased With Milan.
"This is a solemn thing, sir, and here in Milan where I know that so much of the pulse of international sympathy beats, I am glad to stand up and say that I believe that that pulse beats also in my own veins and that I am not thinking of a particular settlement."

"I am very much touched today, sir, to receive at the hands of wounded soldiers a memorial in favor of a league of nations and to be told by them what it was that they had fought for—not merely to win the war, but to secure something beyond, some guarantee of justice to some of the world as a whole which would make it certain that they would never again have to fight a war like this."

"This is an added obligation upon us who make peace. We cannot merely sign a treaty of peace and go home with a conscience more. We must do so far as we can the security which suffering men everywhere demand."

Armies Share Glory.
"And when I speak of suffering men I think also of suffering women. I know that, splendid as have been the achievements of your armies and tremendous, which have been the sacrifices, which they have made and great the glory which they have achieved, the real hard pressure of the burden came upon the women at home whose men had gone to the front and who were willing to have them stay there until the battle was fought out. And I have heard from your minister of food the story how, for days together there would be no word, and when they knew that there was no bread the spirit of the people did not flag."

"I take off my hat to the great people of Italy and tell them that my admiration is merged into friendship and affection. It is in this spirit that I receive you from courtesy, sir, and thank you for the bottom of my heart for this unprecedented reception which I have received at the hands of your generous people."

BASEBALL STAR QUILTS.
Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 6.—Fred Anderson, New York National League pitcher announced today he would quit baseball permanently to practice dentistry here.

Hundred Million For Relief Work In France Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—By a vote described as "very close" the house appropriations committee today approved the request of President Wilson that congress appropriate $100,000,000 for relief work in Europe, outside of Germany. The bill as finally agreed upon will be reported to the house tomorrow and Chairman Shelley said he would seek prompt action.

Opposition to the president's proposal was not on party lines, Democrats as well as Republicans voicing disapproval. Only fourteen of the twenty-one members of the committee were present and it was said one of the abstained from voting.

The motion to favorably report the bill was made by Representative Cannon of Illinois, Republican.

Representative Cox of Indiana, Democrat, urged that an audit of expenditures be made mandatory but his amendment striking out the provision requiring the audit only "where practicable" was lost 6 to 5, three members not voting.

Representatives Sisson and Gallivan of Massachusetts, Democrats and Representative Gillette of Massachusetts, Good of Iowa, and Mondell of Montana also were said to have spoken against the bill.

As finally approved, the bill gives the president discretionary authority in the expenditure of the fund, which may be used as a revolving fund until next June 30, and provides that while food shall be given free to starving people unable to pay for it, the expenditures shall be reimbursed so far as possible by the governments or subdivisions thereof or the peoples to whom the relief is furnished.

51st General Assembly Starts Tomorrow Noon

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 6.—Every incoming train today was bringing additional members of the fifty-first general assembly which convenes Wednesday noon. The speakership issue, which promises to be an out and out "wet" and "dry" proposition brought forth positive claims of victory from both sides, but no definite test of strength was expected before the republican caucus tomorrow night.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League, who is on the ground leading the opposition to David E. Shanahan for reelection, said the "drys" would insist on a roll call in the house and would not countenance a secret ballot. The vote on this issue, it is expected, will be the first real indication as to how the "uncertain" members will stand on the speakership question.

Mr. McBride stated this morning that no conference of "drys" had been had, but that he had invited individual "drys" to meet with him during the day. Mr. Shanahan reached Springfield during the night. He said today that assurances of republican members were that he would be the caucus choice and that his election would follow.

PRESIDENT POINCARÉ WILL VISIT AMERICA

PARIS, Jan. 6.—President Poincaré will probably visit the United States late in June or early in July. This announcement was made by the president himself this evening. The Associated Press suggested that a greatest reception was awaiting him, a foreign ruler was awaiting him, the president said:

"I must return President Wilson's visit. I am not looking for the honors of a reception. I simply wish to thank America and Americans for what they have done for the cause of liberty and France."

LOWDEN PRAISES DEAD EX-PRESIDENT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 6.—In an expression made public here today on the death of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Governor Frank O. Lowden said: "Wherever despotism, whether the despotism of some future Hohenzollern or a Bolshevik, shall threaten, Theodore Roosevelt, though in his grave, will speak to the American people with a compelling voice. He is still the valiant foe of greed, oppression and injustice. He is not dead, but has gone to join his brave, beloved boy. He will live forever in the hearts of the American people."

Order Cabled Dewey In 1898 Most Striking

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—In the records of the navy department, Theodore Roosevelt has left many memorials to his keen interest in the service, but none more striking than an order cabled to Admiral Dewey on February 25, 1898, nearly two months before war was declared on Spain in which the first step toward American occupation of the Philippine Islands was taken.

Mr. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy issued the order without the knowledge or approval of Secretary Long, and in his autobiography he described this as one of the times when he seized opportunities presented by the absence of the secretary to take steps toward preparation for war which he regarded as vital.

Order to Dewey.
Mr. Roosevelt had repeatedly urged that prompt action be taken to make ready for war. He believed Admiral, then Commodore Dewey, commanding the Asiatic Fleet, should be given advance instructions for even before the Maine was sunk he had felt certain that war with Spain was inevitable. No instructions were sent to Dewey, however, and when Mr. Long departed from Washington on February 25th, leaving Roosevelt as acting secretary this order over Roosevelt's name went over the cables:

"Dewey, Hong Kong: Secret and confidential. 'Order the squadron, except Monocacy, to Hong Kong. Keep full of coal. In event of declaration of war Spain your duty to see that Spanish squadron does not leave Asiatic coast and then offensive operations in Philippine Islands. Keep Olympia Dewey's flagship at Manila Bay, previously ordered home) until further orders."

"Roosevelt." In discussing this and similar steps he took, Mr. Roosevelt told in his account of his own life of what he regarded as the greatest weakness of the navy at that time, its poor gunnery. He recalled many letters written at Manila at that time by the American naval attaché at Paris, then Lieutenant, now Vice-Admiral Sims, and declared that this young officer alone seemed to realize fully the deplorable state of the navy in this regard at the eve of war.

Singled out Sims.
Subsequently, as president, Mr. Roosevelt singled out Sims and placed him at the head of naval gunnery which resulted in development of the present high standards of marksmanship in the United States navy. Mr. Roosevelt then coined the phrase that "only holes mean its and the shots that hit are the shots that count."

The keen study given to naval matters by the former president while assistant secretary was shown in his first message to congress which included more than 100 specific recommendations as to the navy. Finally he sent the Atlantic fleet under Rear-Admiral (Fighting Bob) Evans on its memorable cruise around the world the first and last voyage of its kind ever undertaken by any battle fleet. But Colonel Roosevelt's interest was not confined to the naval service alone. During his first administration he succeeded in having congress enact the first general staff act and he promptly appointed as organizer and first chief of staff, Major General Leonard Wood, now the ranking line officer of the army.

Mr. Roosevelt laid the foundation for the staff by taking General Wood, then a surgeon, from the medical service, and appointing him commander of the famous regiment of "Rough Riders" which the former president organized at the outbreak of the war with Spain and with which he served through the war.

MONEY ON PAPER.

Each year when one reads the city appropriation ordinance there comes the thought of what a grand feeling it would be if the money appropriated were actual instead of being on paper. An appropriation ordinance, however, simply provides for the spending of money if it is secured. And the "if" is very large, for funds which become available are usually about 20 per cent of what the appropriation ordinance shows. However, the ordinance each year is a worth while measure of preparedness.

PARCEL POST DEFECTS.

Mr. Burleson's suggestion that the parcels post service in the country be extended to provide for the better distribution of country produce brings in mind some of the defects of the parcels post system, in its present operation. The records show that about 100,000 parcels post packages have been stolen from the mails in the past year. With such an enormous leakage it looks reasonable that the department might find some method of catching the offenders and putting an end to the losses. It is true that packages can be insured, but the limit of value is $100, so that it is impossible to send many packages thru the mail because of the risk involved.

A STATE CONSTABULARY.

There is a growing sentiment for the establishment of a state constabulary in Illinois. This movement has been given some impetus by the action of the judges advocate that enlisted men of the national guard when discharged from the army service revert to their civilian status. The state constabularies elsewhere correspond somewhat to the Canadian mounted police and their services have been found extremely satisfactory making largely for law and order. The only known disadvantage of good roads is that the improvement is very likely to add crimes of a certain class. Bank holdups and burglaries are likely to increase because of the possibility of escape by automobile which the good roads afford. A bill for a constabulary will doubtless be presented at the next session of the general assembly and the experience of Pennsylvania, Texas and other states will be cited as an argument in its favor.

PLAYING FOR TIME

Running thru Mr. McAdoo's argument for government control of railroads to continue for five years, there is the thought that solution of the railroad problem will come during this period. The former secretary of the treasury professes fear that an earlier return of the roads to the owners would inject them into politics, and rightly insists that the railroad problem is one of economics. He really admits that the administration has no definite plan of control to offer.

Certainly it would be disastrous in a business way if the roads were immediately turned over to private management, but it does not yet appear that a five year period is necessary for the working out of the general problem of railroad management. The details of their management rest with congress and it is highly probable that a law providing for management of the roads in a more satisfactory way than existed before the war can be worked out by congress in a period much shorter than five years.

A GREAT AMERICAN LEADER.

The death of ex-President Roosevelt removes from public life one of the greatest Americans. In the opinion of many people the phrase "one of the greatest" will not apply for they have looked upon him as without an equal in the history of the nation. And there is much to substantiate that claim of greatness, and few will deny that Colonel Roosevelt of all Americans had the greatest personal following.

As president of the U. S. for seven years his vigorous manhood was indelibly impressed upon the life of the nation. When he became president thru the death of McKinley there were many who feared that his impulsiveness would lead him into dangerous paths. But this did not prove true and he developed in these early years a certain amount of conservatism which gave his aggressive spirit a still greater strength.

When elected to the presidency for a four year term he followed such policies that he was accounted a genuine friend of the common people. He hated sham, he hated hypocrisy, he did not know fear and his personal life and public utterances breathed such a rugged manhood that he gave great impetus toward personal righteousness among the people. Up to that time no president had manifested such a versatility of ability. Aside from the problems of statecraft he found time to write newspaper articles, essays and books and to thus express his view on the varied problems of life. He was interested in athletics. He was a student of nature. He was posted in philosophy and competent to discuss questions of church and religion. So men and women in all walks of life came to know his views in a much more personal way than has been true of most presidents.

Mr. Roosevelt was an untiring enemy and when opposed to any man or measure he left no stone unturned in giving voice and action to that unrelenting opposition. His reputation, great at home, soon became international and he was a conspicuous figure the world over, admired for his bodily and mental vigor. Mr. Roosevelt had the wonderful quality in statesmanship of vision. He seemed to look ahead into the years much farther than most public men and history has gone to prove the correctness of his views, particularly on international problems.

When the European war broke out he was vigorous in his demand for military and naval preparedness on the part of the U. S., and had the policies he advocated been followed, enormous costs in life and money would have been saved this nation. Denied the privilege of leading a volunteer armed force overseas, he did not sulk but did what he could in war work and the patriotic record of his own family is a credit to the nation. His four sons and his son-in-law were soon in the army service after the declaration of war.

The suddenness of Col. Roosevelt's death somehow seems especially in accord with the man, for his taking off was in the midst of vigorous work. His hours and days were industriously employed with public affairs and he died in the harness. One can imagine that he would have chosen such a way, for weakness and invalidism were foreign to his life and nature.

Friends, admirers, critics and enemies can agree on this—that in Roosevelt's death a great American leader has passed on. It is well for the nation that the influence of his life will not pass—that his ideals of private life and public service will live on.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

IN JANUARY

In January people say, "Where are your vows of New Year's Day?" They look so cunning and so wise, the blamed uncomfortable guys! If they were tuff and polite, they'd say the weather is just right; they'd say the rain and snow and sleet are splendid for the winter wheat. They'd talk about the price of calves, the future of the Jugo-Slavs. But no, they never pause, to seek for wholesome themes of which to speak, though topics void of all offense apparent are to men of sense. Ah, no! They wink and smile and say, "Where are the vows of New Year's Day?" You told them when you made your pledge that you would never, never hedge. Upon the crowded market place you made your boasts, with beaming face; you never more would smoke or chew, or use such words as pirates do; you'd cut out all your habits punk, you'd be as good as a monk. Alas, that people won't ignore the trifling little vows we swore! They might discuss free verse or rats, or talk about their winter hats, or beef about the price of coal, or spring some harmless rigmorale. But no, they slide up and say, "Where are the vows of New Year's Day?"

IMMIGRATION FROM ITALY.

The question of immigration is one which is said to be bothering Italy, for notwithstanding the heavy losses of war, the country now has a surplus of manual labor. When the war began Italy practically put an end to the immigration of all able-bodied citizens and there are now said to be hundreds of thousands of men there ready and anxious to leave for other fields of labor. Immigration from Italy in the past has made a very substantial contribution to the labor strength of the U. S. In view of the close relationships which the two nations have had since the war began—the cemented friendship—there should be little difficulty in settling the immigration question so far as these countries are concerned.

WALTER WOODMAN HERE

Walter Woodman is down from Peoria for a few days visit with his mother, Mrs. Emily Woodman residing west of the city. Mr. Woodman is well known here as the ground keeper at the old West Side ball park, while Jacksonville was in league baseball. He gained a wide reputation as having the best kept baseball park in the circuit. When Clarence Rowland went to Peoria as manager of that team in the Three Eye league he took Walter there and he gained further reputation as a groundkeeper. Last season Bill Jackson, who formerly managed Peoria took him to Omaha where he was managing that team in the Western league. Walter did not like Omaha and returned to Peoria where the directors of the association put him in charge of the grounds there, where city league games were being played.

Mr. Woodman returns to Peoria Friday. He said last night while talking to a Journal reporter that Peoria was crazy for baseball and it was probable that the old Three Eye League would be reorganized with a couple of the old Tri-State league towns in it.

Social Events

Young Women's Foreign

Missionary Society Met.

The Young Women's Foreign Missionary society of Centenary church met Monday evening with Mrs. George Fuhr, 229 East College avenue. It was the first meeting in several months because of the influenza quarantine and there was a good attendance of members and much interest was shown. The society is studying the book, "Women Workers of the Orient." The second and third chapters were taken up at this meeting. Miss Emma Hunter presented an interesting paper on "Women Wage Earners." Miss Alexander presented a well prepared paper with "The Broadening Horizon" as her subject. Following the program a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held the first Monday in February.

Party For Young People.

Miss Berl and Verna Wallace entertained a company of young people Monday night at their home, 921 West State street, in honor of Maskell Sharpe, who is soon to return to military academy at Mexico, Mo. The hours were spent in dancing and the event was one of very great social pleasure for all those present.

FUNERALS

DeFreitas

Funeral services for John M. DeFreitas were held from Williamson & Cody's undertaking parlors at 2:30 o'clock in charge of the Rev. J. H. Morphis, pastor of Northminster church. Music was furnished by Mrs. J. M. DeFrates and Mrs. James A. Scott with Mrs. George W. Ferreira at the organ. Following the sermon the Modern Woodmen of Camp No. 912 carried the funeral of the order with John N. Joaquin as venerable consul and J. Earl Vascconcelos as adviser. Owing to the non-arrival of Mrs. Joseph Frank, a daughter, residing in Montana, burial will not be made until this afternoon.

John M. DeFreitas passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Smith in Beards-town Friday morning at 4:30 at the age of 67 years, 9 months and 2 days. He had been in poor health for a number of years. Mr. DeFreitas was a member of Northminster church and of Modern Woodmen Camp No. 912 of this city. Practically all of his life was spent at his home a mile and a half northeast of this city. Until of late years he has been making his home with his children. He leaves to mourn his loss the following children: Lloyd, Ernest, Mrs. Clara Munis, Mrs. Mary Souza, of Jacksonville; Mrs. Bertha Smith of Beardstown; Mrs. Sarah Franks of Wilma, Minnesota; Louis of Davenport, Iowa; Irvin, of Peoria, Ill.; Will of Evanston, Ill. He also leaves fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild. His wife preceded him in death sixteen years ago and also one son, John and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Lee Shaley have passed away.

IMMIGRATION FROM ITALY.

The question of immigration is one which is said to be bothering Italy, for notwithstanding the heavy losses of war, the country now has a surplus of manual labor. When the war began Italy practically put an end to the immigration of all able-bodied citizens and there are now said to be hundreds of thousands of men there ready and anxious to leave for other fields of labor. Immigration from Italy in the past has made a very substantial contribution to the labor strength of the U. S. In view of the close relationships which the two nations have had since the war began—the cemented friendship—there should be little difficulty in settling the immigration question so far as these countries are concerned.

Work Commenced in Organizing Gymnasium Classes—Program Given and Refreshments Served.

He issued cards for physical examinations to the boys to have their family physicians fill out. Mr. Walker also wishes to express the thanks of the officers of the association to those who generously took part in the program which was as follows: Song, America—Audience. Vocal solo—Miss Margaret Scrimger.

WALTER WOODMAN HERE

Walter Woodman is down from Peoria for a few days visit with his mother, Mrs. Emily Woodman residing west of the city. Mr. Woodman is well known here as the ground keeper at the old West Side ball park, while Jacksonville was in league baseball. He gained a wide reputation as having the best kept baseball park in the circuit. When Clarence Rowland went to Peoria as manager of that team in the Three Eye league he took Walter there and he gained further reputation as a groundkeeper. Last season Bill Jackson, who formerly managed Peoria took him to Omaha where he was managing that team in the Western league. Walter did not like Omaha and returned to Peoria where the directors of the association put him in charge of the grounds there, where city league games were being played.

Mr. Woodman returns to Peoria Friday. He said last night while talking to a Journal reporter that Peoria was crazy for baseball and it was probable that the old Three Eye League would be reorganized with a couple of the old Tri-State league towns in it.

A PREMEDITATED FALSEHOOD
To the Editor of the Journal:

In last Saturday morning's issue of your paper there appeared in "Social Events," an account of a dance given in Murrayville in honor of the returned soldiers.

The author of this article in question is a fabricator, possessed of a distorted, warped week mind.

The building in which the dance was given is not the property of St. Bartholomew's church, but rather of Messrs. Solomon and Wright.

The dance was given by a committee of highly esteemed gentlemen in Murrayville in honor of the returned soldiers; and not by a Thomas Flynn. No one by the name of Flynn had and connection with the affair. There is not a Thomas Flynn in Murrayville or vicinity; but the pastor's name is Flynn and that is as near as the author dared approach without inviting serious trouble.

Neither pastor nor church members had anything to do with conducting the dance; but many of the church members attended and are proud of the fact because it was given in honor of the returned soldiers.

From all accounts the affair was conducted in a classy refined manner and was attended by the most refined, respected, broadminded, patriotic people of Murrayville and vicinity. Then why this "slam," why vent their spleen on parties who were innocent? Why deliberately falsify? Why this premeditated fabrication?

This answer is evident. "They swallow a camel and strain at a gnat." Dancing is against their "politics" and religion. Perchance it is a case of the dog in the manger. They cannot dance themselves; or perhaps they feared no one would dance with them, and in their sorrow and dejection they would vent their spleen on some innocent party whom they thought would not retaliate. However let the author remember that autoeracy has been consigned to the royal garbage heap.

Democracy, liberty and justice are supreme. If Murrayville ever was puritanic, it is not such any longer. Do not in this free country try to force your ideas of holiness and sanctity on others. In these strenuous days we have no respect for the self-constituted, self enthroned autocrat. As to the guardianship of the morals and conduct of the community leave it to the officers of the village board who have been elected for that purpose, and to those who are especially trained in that regard. Let this self constituted autocrat confine his or her jurisdiction to the household and backyard. If this principle be followed the self enthroned autocrat will be happier and so will the rest of the community.

Remember dancing is an art and a pastime as old as the human race. Dancing is a manifestation of joy and happiness. But like everything else it can be made harmful and sinful for three reasons: The first reason is subjective, that is the individuals may create the harm by their own conduct. The second reason is when people of questionable character or intoxicated persons are allowed to attend or liquor is permitted to be sold in the hall. The third reason consists in permitting the so-called modern dances, which, strictly speaking, are not dances at all, but a product of the underworld. There is but slight danger of the second and third instances occurring in any decent refined community.

Dancing when it takes place in the presence of parents or elderly persons if adjudged at a sense-able hour is harmless. In all the camps and cantonments dancing formed a part of the pastime of the soldiers. If the returned soldiers choose this form of recreation or entertainment, they will have it. There is nothing too good for our soldiers.

In conclusion we ask the author of this fabrication and deliberate falsehood to correct it and apologize as soon as possible. The name of the author is known. In consolation to this unfortunate party, we will say that in spite of all their distorted ideas and pet hobbies that there will continue to be dancing and after their sad failure and misguided zeal in this respect and they have passed the threshold of eternity there will be dancing.

Edmond V. Flynn.

Don't Throw Away YOUR OLD SHOES

Make Them Wear Like New—As Did 1,000,000 Office.

A Canadian army officer, Wilkes Pemberton, of the famous Princess Pat Regiment, told of the extraordinary wear given him by a pair of army boots twice repaired with Neolin Soles.

"Six months of trench warfare under destructive conditions put the first pair of Neolin Soles out of business," said Lieutenant Pemberton, "but ordinary soles would have gone to pieces in much less time."

Don't throw away shoes that can be repaired. Have them re-bottomed with tough, durable Neolin Soles. Any cobbler or repairman will do the work for you. The price is no more than for soles that give less wear. Remember—Neolin Soles are greater by reason to be what soles should be. They are flexible and waterproof as well as durable. They come on new shoes of all styles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Whiplast heels—guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

able hour is harmless. In all the camps and cantonments dancing formed a part of the pastime of the soldiers. If the returned soldiers choose this form of reception or entertainment, they will have it. There is nothing too good for our soldiers.

In conclusion we ask the author of this fabrication and deliberate falsehood to correct it and apologize as soon as possible. The name of the author is known. In consolation to this unfortunate party, we will say that in spite of all their distorted ideas and pet hobbies that there will continue to be dancing and after their sad failure and misguided zeal in this respect and they have passed the threshold of eternity there will be dancing.

Don't Throw Away YOUR OLD SHOES

Make Them Wear Like New—As Did 1,000,000 Office.

A Canadian army officer, Wilkes Pemberton, of the famous Princess Pat Regiment, told of the extraordinary wear given him by a pair of army boots twice repaired with Neolin Soles.

"Six months of trench warfare under destructive conditions put the first pair of Neolin Soles out of business," said Lieutenant Pemberton, "but ordinary soles would have gone to pieces in much less time."

Don't throw away shoes that can be repaired. Have them re-bottomed with tough, durable Neolin Soles. Any cobbler or repairman will do the work for you. The price is no more than for soles that give less wear. Remember—Neolin Soles are greater by reason to be what soles should be. They are flexible and waterproof as well as durable. They come on new shoes of all styles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Whiplast heels—guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

President Will Spend Busy Week With Delegates

PARIS, Jan. 6.—President Wilson is due back in Paris at eight o'clock tomorrow morning. There will be no formalities over his arrival and he will proceed to the Murat residence for a series of conferences which will begin to give concert form to the work of the peace conference. Lord Robert Cecil, the British authority on a League of Nations will be one of the early arrivals in Paris after the President. Premier Lloyd George, if the British Cabinet situation permits, is expected at the end of the week and Foreign Secretary Balfour is ready to come from Cannes whenever he is needed.

Lord Robert Cecil it is understood is ready to present a quite definite plan giving the British viewpoint on a society of nations. Leon Bourgeois also is prepared to outline the French plan, while the American delegates have been engaged actively in putting their views in definite shape. The president is expected to take a lively interest in this subject. Others likely to see the president are Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Premier Venizelos of Greece and a Zionist delegation for discussion of questions concerning Palestine, Syria and Armenia. Parts of the Polish, Czech-Slovak and Serbian delegations have arrived and are seeking interviews with the president who doubtless will confer with all of them. The outlook is for a busy week preparatory to the assembling of the interrelated conference next week.

DR. KOPPEL TO HAVE FINE OFFICE ON SQUARE

Expects Soon to Occupy Main Floor of Knollberg Building—Will Develop Insurance Business—Rest Rooms for Public Included in Plans.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Koppel have returned from Chicago where Dr. Koppel went to attend a meeting of managers and agents for the Illinois Life Insurance Co. The public will be greatly interested in knowing that Dr. Koppel has practically closed the arrangements for occupying the main floor room of the Knollberg building at the corner of the square and East State street, and will open an insurance office there about Jan. 15.

This is one of the finest business locations in Jacksonville and Dr. Koppel expects to furnish the room in an attractive and substantial way. The building is spacious but will not be larger than the needs require for the enlarged business that Dr. Koppel is expecting to develop in coming months. He is manager of the west central Illinois agency for the Illinois Co., and is so responsible for an extensive territory. One of his district managers, E. R. Gillespie, is now preparing to move to Jacksonville and will hereafter have his headquarters here.

Another matter of public interest in connection with Dr. Koppel's plan is that he is expecting to utilize one part of the building as a rest room. There will be facilities and conveniences that are usually found in such a place and the accessibility of the room is certain to make it of great value to the public. In these days of increased automobile travel and the larger number of visitors, there is need and demand for such a room conveniently located, and Dr. Koppel has secured ample office rooms with the thought in mind of filling this want.

The Chicago meeting which Dr. and Mrs. Koppel attended included something over 200 representatives of the Illinois Life Co., and some excellent addresses were made. The reports presented indicated that although the war and influenza had increased the death claims of the company between thirty and forty per cent, it had passed thru the greatest year of its history. The company is so organized by its founders that notwithstanding the losses sustained, that it is today stronger than ever before. One interesting item reported was the fact that an agent for the company in Chicago last week wrote one policy for $1,000,000.

At the Chicago meeting Dr. Koppel had the honor of being elected first vice president.

PASTOR'S SALARY INCREASED

At a congregational meeting of the people of Westminster church, held Sunday morning, on recommendation of the trustees an increase of $300 per year was made in the salary of the pastor, Dr. E. B. Landis. This increase will be effective from Oct. 1, 1918. The increase was voted because of the appreciation the people have of the work the pastor is doing and their realization of the increased cost of living.

RESIDENCE CHANGES

Mr. and Mrs. W. Barr Brown are moving into the first floor apartment in the W. L. Alexander building. The home at 1199 West State street, which they recently vacated, will be occupied in a few days by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dobyns and children and Mrs. McIlvane. The house was purchased by Mr. Dobyns about two weeks ago.

living human asset and his influence on American character will survive him many generations."

New York, Jan. 4.—Men of national prominence who paid tribute here today to Colonel Roosevelt termed him the "greatest American of his day," "a personification of the Americanism of which he was the most doughty champion," "one of the greatest figures of our time" and "the last man to claim that he was always wise, but one who always fought for what he believed right."

The former president clasped in a resolution of the board of aldermen as the "truly typical American of his age," was lauded by Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America as "depriving the aeronautic movement of one of its strongest supporters." Frank A. Vanderlip said it was the colonel's courage more than anything else that gave him the "marvelous following" that he had. Theodore N. Vail declared the colonel's death would cause, "universal sorrow" and was a great loss to the country and to the people. Former Ambassador James W. Gerard describes Theodore Roosevelt as the greatest American of his day, representing the highest type of the real "old fashioned American" whose place would be hard to fill, "because he understood and represented all sections of America."

"I am deeply shocked," said Thomas F. Ryan; "the country has lost a man who always fought for what he believed to be right, but more than all he was a true American."

John Mitchell, former head of the United Mine Workers of America, now chairman of the New York state food commission said the colonel's attitude toward industrial and social righteousness had a tremendous influence upon the minds and activities of all—those forces which have worked for human betterment—and his death deprives America of a force which it had need of in the solution of the readjustment problems growing out of the war.

"I admired him greatly," said Thomas A. Edison. "He was one of our greatest Americans. He was straight. He was honest." "It was my pleasure to serve under him during the trying days of Panama canal construction and as a man his charm and magnetic personality enshrined him in the affections of all who knew him," said Theodore P. Shotts.

Paris, Jan. 6.—Theodore Roosevelt's death came as a shock to Paris, which was unaware of his illness. The public had been expecting the fulfillment of his proposed visit to France.

The news of Colonel Roosevelt's death was communicated by The Associated Press to the peace commission and other officials in diplomatic circles eliciting general expressions of shock and regret. J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador to the United States said, "the unexpected death of one who has upheld all his life the principles of virile manhood, straightforward honesty and fearlessness, will be mourned all over the world, nowhere more sincerely than in France, whose cause he upheld in her trying times."

Herbert C. Hoover said: "The news of Mr. Roosevelt's death comes to me as a distinct shock. America is poorer for the loss of a great citizen, the world for the loss of a great man. His virility and Americanism has been one of our national treasures."

Col. E. M. House said: "I am greatly shocked to hear the news that comes from America. The entire world will share the grief which will be felt in the United States over the death of Theodore Roosevelt. He was the one virile and courageous leader of his generation and will live in history as one of our greatest presidents."

Colonel House went to Mrs. Roosevelt a cablegram saying: "Mrs. House shares with me the great sorrow which all Americans feel over the death of your distinguished husband."

President Poincaré when informed by The Associated Press of the death of Theodore Roosevelt said:

"I am very much affected by the report of ex-President Roosevelt's death. It was so unexpected. After the ex-president had left the hospital some days ago we thought that all danger had passed. Well do I remember the dignified letter which I received from Mr. Roosevelt after the death of his son. It was in that letter that he informed me that he was coming to France to visit the grave of his son. It is distressing to me to think that poor Roosevelt will not have an opportunity to lay flowers on the grave of his heroic son. The whole heart of France goes out to Mrs. Roosevelt in sympathy."

"Friend of liberty, friend of France, Roosevelt has given, without counting sons and daughters, his energy that liberty may live. We are grateful to him. We wish to express to Mrs. Roosevelt our most sincere condolence."

TWO MORE FARM SALES RECORDED

Two sales of farm land were made known yesterday having just been completed by E. B. Wiswell. The David Wood farm of 242 acres located about 8 miles southeast of the city has been sold by R. R. Wood to J. H. Hubbs. The exact price has not been made public but the sale totaled something over $50,000. A year ago Mr. Wood sold this farm to A. L. Smith, who subsequently disposed of it to John Spencer. A little later Mr. Spencer resold it to Mr. Wood, so that the property has changed hands quite a number of times in less than a year's period. Barlow McIntyre has sold his farm of 187 acres to Clarence Meredith for $200 per acre. This land is located not far from Vreden and was purchased by Mr. McIntyre last July.

IMPROVEMENT BOARD MET

At the meeting of the board of local improvements yesterday a second estimate for the South Main street pavement was approved in favor of Contractor J. E. Bretz. This estimate is $1,796.45. There are several thousand dollars still due on the contract and some defective places must be made good before final payment is made. The estimate for the paving done between the rails of the street car company on South Main street amounting to $8,377 was approved also. The final estimate for the West State street pavement was presented. This shows a total of $49,142.28. The original engineer's estimate for cost of improvement was $52,214. Notices of intended final hearings will be sent to property owners and they will then have the opportunity of making objections.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THIS YEAR DISCUSSED

Annual Finance Measure Before City Council—Officers' Reports are Filed.

The principal business considered at the meeting of the city council Monday morning was the annual appropriation ordinance. It was given the first reading and there was some revision of items as the reading progressed. A second session of the council was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when still other changes were made and the ordinance was then laid over under the rules. It will be passed at the next regular meeting and will then be in effect thirty days later.

A number of the different funds were revised with a view of making preparation for the incoming council. The members of the council realize that the hands of the incoming city officials will be tied as far as expenditures is concerned unless due provision has been made in the appropriation ordinance. As is true of all appropriation ordinances the amounts appropriated in the various funds give no accurate idea of city income in fact the amounts appropriated are three or four times greater than the actual income.

SCHOOL BOARD HELD BUSY SESSION MONDAY

Financial Report Shows Status of Insurance Fund—Plan for Making up Lost School Days Explained.—Notes.

The board of education last night disposed of a quantity of business in a somewhat extended session. The financial condition was explained and was good; insurance matters were explained and arranged; the report of the advisory architect was received and made a part of the records; the time for the first semester of the year was arranged so as to make good, as far as possible the time lost by recent closing arrangements regarding heating in school rooms; proper sanitary condition of lockers and abolition of common drinking cup and towels. He had written a letter to all principals calling attention to the law and asking for daily inspection of each child.

The conditions of the children had been quite satisfactory. From the David Prince building tea had been sent home and from each of the wards and the open air school one each.

A temporary substitute was permitted in the case of Mr. Angelo, janitor in third ward, as his daughter is very sick and needs his attention.

Notes.

The matter of the use of the open air school building as an emergency hospital was reported. The lockers in the David Prince building are wholly inadequate for the pupils and racks were ordered as a temporary substitute. The Royal typewriters had been received and the company generously waived charges for rent on those used temporarily and the secretary was instructed to return the thanks of the board for the courtesy.

A request of Illinois college for four dates for basket ball games in the gymnasium was presented and the same was granted, said dates not to conflict with dates of the school.

Supt. Perrin said it was practically impossible to get substitutes for less than three dollars per day and he was authorized to pay it.

Some children had been removed from school after having paid tuition and the unearned tuition was ordered refunded.

A question regarding the correct west boundary of the Springfield property bought by the board had been raised and the surveyor who did the first work and set the stakes was instructed to do the work again so as to be sure that the boundary was correct. Adjourned.

TAX WORK.

Tax extension is proceeding in a satisfactory way at the office of County Clerk G. L. Riggs. The rates have now been compiled except in one or two school districts adjoining Sangamon county.

BACK FROM CAMP

Wilbur Hauck, who has been at Camp Pike since July, recently received his honorable discharge from the army at Camp Dodge, Iowa, and is now in Jacksonville. The returned soldier expects to leave soon for a visit with his family at Nashville, and plans to resume his position at the Avers National bank. Army life has evidently agreed with Mr. Hauck as he is much heavier in weight. He is enthusiastic about some phases of the service but is glad to be in Jacksonville again.

The last of the patients at the Red Cross Emergency hospital were able to return home Sunday according to statement made yesterday by Judge E. P. Brockhouse, chairman of the committee which was in charge of this work. It is now expected that Passavant hospital will remove the furnishings and that the emergency institution will be closed. The detailed report of the service given during the past two months will be made at a later time. Judge Brockhouse and associates on the committee have performed a distinct public service in a time of great need thru the establishment of this hospital.

ALEXANDER

James Ledford went to Peoria Monday for an indefinite stay. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Beagrup were among the Jacksonville visitors Monday.

It's Apt To Be Serious!

Take no chances with a cold—it's apt to turn into influenza, pneumonia or some other serious trouble. Don't let a cold get a tart. If you keep your bowels free and open, you are not apt to have colds. If your bowels are clogged with food-waste, you are facing grave danger.

Food-waste, which lies in the bowels, ferments and creates poisons, which are absorbed into the blood. The kidneys, lungs and skin pores are taxed to their capacity to hrow off these poisons and have not the proper ability to resist disease. Don't put them under such a handicap.

Get a bottle of SALINOS from your druggist. It will thoroughly empty the bowels, including the lower bowel, where most poisons are formed. It tastes pleasant, acts pleasantly, too. You can get a bottle for a Quarter (larger sizes Fifty cents and a Dollar). Be safe. Keep SALINOS on hand.

YOUNG MAN DIES

AT WEST POINT
George B. Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Daniels of Tallula, died at West Point Saturday afternoon, according to a message received here Sunday by his aunt, Mrs. John T. Gunn, residing west of the city. The young man was born in Petersburg, where he graduated from the high school last spring. In September, having gained admittance to the military academy at West Point, he began his work there. His record at the academy thus far was one to give satisfaction to his family and friends. The unexpected death has brought great sadness to the relatives and their friends.

The young man is survived by his parents; four sisters; Mrs. Clarence E. Kirby of Petersburg; Mrs. Loren Grider, Tallula; Miss Lois Daniels now at Illinois university, and Miss Mildred Daniels at home. He leaves also, his aged grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Veerlin Daniels of this city. The lad's father had started east after receiving news of his son's serious illness but news of the death reached him in Chicago. The time of the funeral has not yet been fixed.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT DIES AT OYSTER BAY

of other volumes of kindred character. Returning to New York he became the republican candidate for mayor in 1886. He was defeated. President Harrison in 1888 appointed him a member of the United States Civil Service Commission and President Cleveland continued him in this office, which he resigned in 1895 to become New York City's police commissioner.

"A thing that attracted me to this office," Roosevelt said at the time he accepted this appointment, "was that it was to be done in the hurly-burly, for I don't like cloister life." Honesty was the watchword of this administration and the two years of his occupancy became memorable thru the reforms he inaugurated, attracting the nation's attention while holding a position which was obscure in comparison with the events to come. Illicit liquor traffic, gambling, vice in general—of these he purged the city in the face of corrupt political opposition, and the reputation he established as a reformer won him the personal selection by President McKinley as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in 1897.

A year later the Spanish-American war broke out. The Roosevelt temperament did not allow the man to retain a deputy cabinet position with war offering something more exciting. Leonard Wood, now a Major-General in France, was the President McKinley's physician and one of Roosevelt's staunchest friends.

In Spanish War. The famous Rough Riders were organized by Wood and Roosevelt—a band of fighting men the mention of whose name today suggests immediately the word "Roosevelt". They came out of the west—plainsmen, miners, rough and ready fighters who were natural marksmen, and Wood became their colonel, and "Teddy," as he had become familiarly called by the public, their lieutenant-colonel. In company with the regulars of the army, they took transport to Cuba, landed at Santiago and were engaged in the thick of battle. Among the promotions which this hardy regiment's gallantry brought about were those of Wood to brigadier-general and Roosevelt to colonel—and this title Theodore Roosevelt cherished until the end. Some of the Rough Riders formed the military escort when he was elected president a few years later.

When Cuba had been liberated, Roosevelt returned to New York. A gubernatorial campaign was in swing, with the republican party in need of a capable candidate. Roosevelt was nominated. Van-

Wyck, his democratic opponent, was defeated. The reforms Roosevelt had favored as assemblyman he now had the opportunity to consummate, together with others of more importance, and it was during this administration that he is said to have earned the hostility of corporations. When the republican convention was held in Philadelphia in 1900, his party attained his nomination for vice-president on the ticket with William McKinley. In November of that year this ticket was elected.

The policies of McKinley, Roosevelt endeavored to carry out after he succeeded the former upon the president's tragic death at the hands of an assassin. Roosevelt retained his predecessor's cabinet as his own and he kept in office the ambassadors and ministers whom McKinley had appointed. As much as two years before the presidential campaign of 1904 republican organizations in various states began endorsing him as their next candidate.

It was thus that "the man of destiny" idea became associated with his life. Ostensibly, Roosevelt, leaving the governorship of New York to become vice president, was moving forward from state politics into national politics, so his political opponents professed publicly to believe; but it was their secret desire to "shelve" the man and eliminate him from prominence in their own community. It was said that prompted these political foes to obtain for him the vice presidential nomination, which he personally did not desire.

Many Achievements. At the height of his public and political career, during the four years of the term for which he had been elected, Roosevelt accomplished achievements which historians will rank high in the international and industrial progress of the country.

A rift in the friendship between Roosevelt and his successor as president, William Howard Taft, led to his opposition to Mr. Taft's renomination. The president's influence had been large in placing Mr. Taft in the White House. Now his influence was equally strong in preventing Mr. Taft from remaining there. Men who had clashed with the Taft policies quickly rallied to Roosevelt's support. Roosevelt assembled what he termed as constructive ideas as opposed to the conservative ones of the so-called republican "Old Guard," characterized them with the description "Progressive" and organized the progressive party by withdrawing with his followers from the Chicago convention of 1912. He became the new party's candidate for president. This split in the republican ranks resulted in Woodrow Wilson's election.

One of the most dramatic incidents in Roosevelt's life occurred during this campaign. As he was leaving a hotel, in Milwaukee to go to a meeting hall to make a political address, a man standing among the spectators in the street fired a shot which struck the colonel and smashed a rib. Roosevelt insisted he was not seriously hurt and his automobile conveyed him to the hall. There he spoke to an audience which had knowledge of what had happened—sobbing women and grave-faced men shaken with emotion by his appearance under such circumstances. Examinations of the wound showed it was serious and the candidate was hurried by special train to Chicago for treatment. Tho he speedily recovered the bullet was never removed. The assassin was sent to an asylum for the insane.

Blinded in One Eye. The strenuous physical activities in which Roosevelt engaged in the White House included boxing; it was not until about eight years after he had left the White House that it was disclosed that during one of these bouts, which he welcomed as a means of keeping him in fighting trim, a blow landed by a sparring opponent injured one of the colonel's eyes. Later blindness of this eye developed.

When the European war began Roosevelt vigorously advocated a policy of national preparedness, urging universal training for the nation's youth. In speeches throughout the country and in his magazine and newspaper writing he criticized, in this respect the policies of Woodrow Wilson during Mr. Wilson's first term as president.

Mr. Roosevelt, it has been said, was keenly disappointed when he did not receive the republican nomination for president in 1916. At the same time, however, he refused to follow the advice of his staunchest followers that he again head the progressive party ticket. Instead he prevailed upon the progressive party to make Charles Evans Hughes, the republican candidate, its own choice.

He campaigned for Mr. Hughes. With the re-election of Mr. Wilson, and America's entry into the world war soon after, Roosevelt immediately supported the president and bitterly assailed the pro-Germans, pacifists and other type of men who attempted to delay speeding up the war.

With the United States a belligerent, Roosevelt endeavored to obtain the consent of the war department to establish an army division which he was anxious to take to France. This division was to have included many of the Rough Riders who were his associates in the campaign in Cuba, and younger men of the same strenuous habits. The necessary permission for the formation of such a force was not forthcoming even tho Roosevelt expressed willingness to accompany it as a subordinate officer.

Denied the privilege of fighting for his flag, Theodore Roosevelt's interest was centered on his family's participation in the war. His four sons and his son-in-law, Dr. Derby, carried out a prediction made by the former president before the United States took up arms—that if war came they would enter service. Theodore, Jr., became a major and Archibald, a captain, both in France; Quentin entered a French aviation squadron and Dr. Derby the medical service, also both in France. Kermit, failing to pass a physical examination which would admit him to the United States army, received a commission in the British army, and was soon in Mesopotamia. Quentin died in the service while Theodore, Jr., was wounded.

Roosevelt's disappointment at not being allowed to go to France with an army division was it may be stated on the authority of an American citizen who was in Berlin about that time shared by Emperor Wilhelm of Germany. To this American, the emperor is declared to have stated that the funniest thing that he could conjure in his imagination was the sight of Theodore Roosevelt wearing a gas mask.

Heat Garage to Save Radiator From Cold

If the small private garage is to be used during the winter, any car owner of experience will understand the necessity of heating it. The cold garage causes many ills besides the obvious one of freezing up the radiator of the car. In most cases it will cause more than enough damage and inconvenience fully to have paid for a complete heating plant.

Most of the starting trouble so generally complained of in winter may be traced back to the cold garage. A sudden drop in temperature is bad for the parts of the engine and for the finish of the body, which are susceptible to marked expansion and contraction through changes in temperature. During the long nights of winter great drops of temperature and a garage that is unheated subjects the car to unnecessary and dangerous tests.

Ice in the batteries is another serious evil resulting from the cold garage. Also, there is the inconvenience of washing when the car is covered with frozen mud. If the car is cleaned with warm water to remove the mud and the garage is cold, the paint and varnish are apt to suffer serious damage, says a writer in Motor.

HOME MISSIONARY AT WESTMINSTER CHURCH

The Rev. Edward Loew, of Norfolk, Nebraska, addressed the people of Westminster church, Sunday evening.

Mr. Loew is an Austrian by birth, and of Jewish parentage. He came to this country at the age of twenty years and became the American that he is. For he is not only a loyal supporter of our government, but he has two sons in our army, one of them being now overseas. The other, and younger one, enlisted at about seventeen years of age.

Mr. Loew has had a remarkable career. He was first a traveling man, then a reporter on a Chicago paper, thereby being drawn into politics, then studied law, afterwards was converted and decided to be a minister, and he was put on the western line in Dakota after his graduation from McCormick Seminary at Chicago. He is a man of fine mind and much ability, the latter quality being shown by the marked success he has met with in the great work of gathering congregations and building churches along our pioneer line.

As often happens among foreigners, Mr. Loew has an excellent command of English at his command, not the haphazard style many of our own people indulge in. In that way, in an informal, conversational manner, the preacher told, in a way that held his hearers to the end, of some of his experiences in the work to which he has been assigned. It was a story of hard work, of self-forgetting labor, of adaptation to all sorts and conditions of men and things, and showing a fitness for such endeavor.

Mr. Loew looked over our city, saw its institutions, went up to Illinois college and saw that great training place of men and women, and got a good idea of why Jacksonville has been such a power for good in the state and in the world. He left on the evening train for Chicago, enroute to his home in "the land of many rivers", which is the meaning of the name Nebraska.

Special assessments are now due. If not paid in the next day or two, interest will be added. C. B. Graff.

MRS. LUTHER LASHMET DIED MONDAY EVENING

Well Known Young Woman Succumbs to Pneumonia After Illness—Was Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Leck.

Mrs. Luther Lashmet died at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Leck, 719 West North street at 7 o'clock Monday evening. Death came from an attack of pneumonia after an illness of one week.

Deceased before her marriage was Miss Helen Leck and was born in this city October 5, 1889. She received her education in the public schools of the city, graduating from the high school in the class of 1909.

Following graduation she spent a year in Chicago where she studied kindergarten work and physical culture. She became a teacher in the public schools of the city the following year and served most acceptably until the close of the school year in 1916.

In June of that year she was united in marriage to Luther Lashmet of this city. Following her marriage they went to Kansas City where for two years, Mr. Lashmet was engaged in the engineering business. In June, 1918 Mr. Lashmet went to New York city where he engaged in similar work and where they have since resided.

A few days before Thanksgiving Mrs. Lashmet came to Jacksonville to spend the holiday season with her parents. Mr. Lashmet followed her arriving a few days before Christmas. He had planned to return the first of the year but his wife's illness caused a change in plans.

Mrs. Lashmet was a member of Grace church and took an active interest in the work of that body while here. She was a young woman of fine attainments and one who won and held many friendships by her cheerful disposition.

Her death coming as it does at the threshold of a useful life is peculiarly sad and news of her going was the cause of universal expressions of regret throughout the city. To the bereaved husband and parents and sisters the sympathy of all will go out in their great bereavement.

Besides her husband and parents she leaves the following sisters, Mrs. Buford M. Hayden, of Hutchinson, Kans., Mrs. James Pratt of Springfield, Mrs. Ohio McCracken of San Antonio, Texas, and Miss Frances Leck at home.

Private funeral services will be held at the residence at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Nephew of State's Attorney C. E. Robinson Met Instant Death Sunday at Home Near Petersburg.

State's Attorney Carl E. Robinson will go to Petersburg today to attend the funeral of his nephew, Roy Robinson. The lad, who was fifteen years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson, was accidentally shot and killed Sunday afternoon. The family lives on a farm about three miles from Petersburg.

The boy was at the barn doing the chores when a neighbor boy with a shot gun came to visit him. Very soon afterward a gun shot was heard and it was found that the full charge had struck young Robinson in the abdomen. He lived only a few moments. His companion was so overcome that he has thus far been unable to give a coherent account of what happened. It is known, however, that it was purely accidental.

AN OBJECT LESSON IN SOILS

A well known agricultural gentleman has left at the Journal office some bottles containing an object lesson in soils. One bottle contains earth taken from a prairie field where the land was rich, black and fertile having been well tended and carefully managed and rotated by its owner. Another bottle contains soil taken from an adjacent field which had been simply robbed of its strength by constant cultivation so that the soil is a very light brown and one would hardly deem it possible that the two samples could come from the same vicinity.

Another bottle contains some of the exhausted soil which had been placed in a fire and burned to lumps.

Still another bottle contains lime which had been extracted from healthy soil showing how much of that material is needed in fields where it is lacking. The gentleman said that crushed limestone is frequently of great value on fields. This is well known to most of the farmers who have grown alfalfa successfully.

Another bottle contains a sample of rice as it comes from the threshing machine with the hulls on. It is from Arkansas.

PASTOR CALLED TO STATE STREET CHURCH

Lieut. W. H. Marbach Is Unanimous Choice of People—Minister Has Occupied Church Pulpit Two Sundays.

Members of State Street church at a congregational meeting held Monday night extended a call to the pastorate of the church to Lieut. W. H. Marbach of Chicago. Mr. B. Landis, presided as moderator and Edward M. Darlap was the clerk. The committee on pulpit supply included Mrs. C. A. Barnes, E. E. Crabtree and C. A. Johnson. Their report and recommendations were made and then by unanimous vote the call was extended. The salary fixed was $2,400 a year. It is quite probable that Lieut. Marbach will answer the call here, altho he has received a call to another church and the people of Marshall, Mo., where he was the pastor before he entered the army as a chaplain, are anxious to have him return to them. The minister has occupied the pulpit of State Street church here both morning and evening for the past two Sundays and has been heard by a majority of the members. They have also met him personally and so the vote to extend the call represents the unanimous wish of all who heard and saw the minister.

Mr. Marbach is thirty one years of age and was born in Chicago. After finishing the Chicago public schools he went to Chicago normal training school and later engaged in teaching work at Lake Forest university. Subsequently he was a teacher of manual training and then became a student at Lake Forest university, graduating with a degree of A. B. Then he enrolled at McCormick seminary, taking a course of three years. He graduated in the class of 1915. While at Lake Forest he was assistant pastor of the Presbyterian church there and immediately after finishing the seminary he became the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Marshall, Mo. He volunteered early to serve as chaplain in the army but was not called into the service until last July.

He attended the chaplains' school at Camp Taylor and after being commissioned as first lieutenant was assigned to Camp Pike, where he was discharged Dec. 4.

Lieut. Marbach was married in 1915 to Miss Harriet Reitz, who at that time was a teacher in the Chicago city schools. After the lieutenant entered the army service Mrs. Marbach resumed her teaching work in Chicago.

The people of State Street church are expecting to have their new pastor and his wife with them in the course of the next thirty or sixty days.

ROADS BAD

The present condition of the roads in this county is a good argument for the good roads movement. While it will take a good while to make all the roads good something should be done and done right each year. Many persons were kept at home yesterday and many others had to take long walks to the railroad station in order to get to the city.

ROOSEVELT HAD TIME TO BE COURTEOUS

Col. Roosevelt was never too busy to be polite and kind to any one he met. When the colonel was president the writer visited Washington with some little friends and called at the White House where the president received them very kindly, shaking hands cordially with the children and speaking pleasantly to all. Noticing the bronze button on the coat of his caller, he remarked: "And you are a Grand Army Man?"

"Yes; and I don't want any office or government favor either. 'Bully for you' was the fervent response of the man so frequently beset by applicants with all sorts of reasons why their claims should be recognized.
